- On March 26, Officers R. Surran and C. Rice were in the process of investigating a stolen television when a shots fired call was received. The two were nearby and immediately went to investigate. The officers came upon a witness who told them a male subject fired gunshots in front of an apartment. Officers approached the residence and contacted a female who told them she heard shots fired in front of her apartment. She indicated she did not know who the offender was. She was asked to exit the apartment for her safety. With additional backup, the officers cleared the apartment and discovered the offender had fled into a neighboring apartment. Officers Rice and Surran made contact with subjects in the apartment, one of which was a male. Officers were able to determine that the male was responsible for the two gunshots into the first apartment's front door. The female had an active restraining order on the male for past domestic violence. The male was also a convicted felon for a previous robbery conviction. He ultimately was arrested and booked on multiple felony charges and faces potential federal prosecution.

The suspect was a local gang member with three active warrants for his arrest and a lengthy criminal history for violent and property crimes. Smith Jr. Northwest Area Command with the architect and structural subcontractor regarding the cracking wallboard near the center of the facility. It was determined that one of the columns is not supposed to be attached to the overall structural supports of the building, but now is due to the wallboard contractor's attachment methods to the rest of the structure. When the supports and roof flexes due to wind shear, temperature and rain, the column is subject to torsion. The torsion is causing the cracks in the wallboard. To remedy, the contractor is going to shore up the column to be able to act as additional substrate structure and be able to handle the torsion loads. This repair will solve the cracking and will not result in additional costs to the City.
