YTD IMPACT BY THE NUMBERS

SIGNIFICANT RESPONSE ACTIVITIES:

- The Community-Oriented Response and Assistance Program (CORA) and the Violence Intervention Program (VIP) responded to a Northeast Albuquerque community, affected by a recent homicide. The team conducted outreach to more than 50 residents and a business.
- In June, CORA assisted an elderly woman who was being evicted. Responders connected her to PACE, which is the Department of Senior Affairs Adult Protective Services and Eviction Prevention Program. They then assisted the woman through the eviction process, by relocating her to an assisted living facility.
- All ACS programs focus on building relationships with the people they help. Not everyone is ready for help the first time a Responder makes contact. Six months ago, CORA spoke with a domestic violence victim who was not ready to leave their situation. Last month, the victim reached out to CORA Responders asking for help. Responders helped the person create a safety plan. CORA Responders then guided the victim through the process of filing a police report. Responders then helped the person safely relocate to a relative's house in another city.
- CORA assisted more than 10 domestic violence victims in June.
