Albuquerque Public Art Bicycle Ride #1

A chance to be on your bike and also get close to some of the works of art installed in public places around Albuquerque.

A good beginning/ending point is the Southeast corner of Winrock parking lot at the entrance to the pedestrian/bicycle bridge over I-40. Approximately 20 miles with 400 feet of elevation change.

Take your camera!

10. Bob Haozous
    "Cultural Crossroads of the Americas" 1996
    "The piece is concerned with the loss of the Mother Earth consciousness—it’s about the child of nature coming to the North and losing something important. The premise of the artwork concerns the migration of indigenous people to the North—to America—where you don’t need a mother. I use the metaphor of the mother to denote the earth relationship that defines all life. Indigenous man commonly shares a multi-generational relationship with the earth that extends over a long period of time."
