

Kaitlin Haase

Southwest Pollinator Conservation
Specialist, Xerces Society
Santa Fe, NM

Kaitlin Haase is the Southwest Pollinator Conservation Specialist at the Xerces Society for Invertebrate Conservation and works to create climate-resilient, connected pollinator habitat in Santa Fe and Albuquerque. She collaborates with and educates public and private urban land managers in New Mexico and the desert Southwest on pollinator-friendly practices for landscaping, gardening, and open space restoration.