- 4. Major Anthony Montano Real Time Crime Center – Drone
 - Drone program – utilized drones since 2008. It was patrolled and launched from the ground, hood of a car, and mainly utilized by special investigation divisions.
 - They moved on from that and started incorporating those into field services and patrol.
 - Drone technology and its applications can map a scene from above. It's highly accurate and reduces the time an officer or PSA spends on scene.
 - In 2020, the APD chief introduced the first responder program using drones. The real-time crime center is located on 114th st and Central. The drones are strategically placed around the city. There are currently 10 drone docks.
 - From the real-time crime center, they can launch a drone from any rooftop, wherever the docks are, and deploy within about a 4-mile radius from that location.
 - The NE near Paseo will receive a dock, and an additional one in the FH will assist with search-and-rescue efforts. Another in the Valley closer to the bosque port.
 - Flying drones to initially fly them to ShotSpotter activations
 - Provide assistance for the field officers. Drones reach locations 90% faster and offer thermal imaging.
 - They started a pilot program with two field officers working day and swing shift. They were acting as their drone pilots, flying to lower-priority calls. These calls can hold for a long time, so the officers' sole responsibility is to fly to priorities and force detection to clear them in through the air. It may be that someone has already left the scene, that nobody was there, or that there are no actionable items or anything to enforce. The officers had a 70% clearance rate, freeing them up to be available for the priority ones and twos.
 - Drone program – fly to every call; if an officer makes a request, there's a pilot available they can dispatch a drone to the call.

- They are working with emergency communications and incorporating a new 911 program. When a 911 call is received, the RTCC captures it and listens to it. Rather than waiting for dispatch, they can fly a drone while the call is still active, before it reaches field officers.
