

Southeast CPC Annual Report 2021

Purpose of the Southeast Command Area CPC

The SECPC had an excellent year in 2021 which led to new leadership and interesting topics. The CPC Motto is Communication, Collaboration, and Cooperation which lead to Consensus-Building, and we tried to keep those goals in order throughout the past year. We started the year with seven members and progressed with meeting attendance of four to seven throughout the eight monthly meetings that we held. The 13 people who served on the council during the year could be classified as such:

Achievements

Our panel presentations continue to work well, so we are continuing with them; we have had individual presenters also. We are working hard on reaching out to various community newsletters and through social media sites to publicize our meetings and are achieving some success.

Challenges

Despite our ongoing attempts to publicize our meetings we are having low attendance. We try to be topical and ask for feedback and suggestions, but so far, we have not received any. The Southeast Area Command is huge and widely varied, at times we do not seem to be reaching everyone. We do send our meeting notifications to neighborhood associations and a few people participate as a result.

Lessons Learned

We have come to realize how important it is to meet and strategize our monthly meetings ahead of time. At times it can be challenging to orchestrate times and days. Despite our outreach attempts it has proved to be challenging to increase attendance to higher numbers.

Recommendations

We have made no recommendations this year.
