Behavioral Health Initiative

Improving behavioral health outcomes in our community

Overview

Bernalillo County and the City of Albuquerque are committed to improving behavioral health outcomes. Through the efforts of a joint governing structure, called the Albuquerque Bernalillo County Government Commission (ABCGC), the county and the city are strategically making decisions to leverage resources with recommendations that include community and stakeholder input.

Following is a description of the structure including the governing body of the city-county effort and the role and membership makeup of each group that comprise the structure.

ABCGC

The joint city-county commission overseeing the community's Behavioral Health Initiative is called the Albuquerque Bernalillo County Government Commission. The ABCGC membership includes City Council and County Commissioner representation, addresses matters that impact both municipalities and is where proposed project recommendations are vetted for final approval.

Structure

The diagram in Figure 1 portrays the oversight commission and committee structure of the joint City of Albuquerque/Bernalillo County Behavioral Health Initiative. Following are descriptions of each working advisory group.

Small Working Group

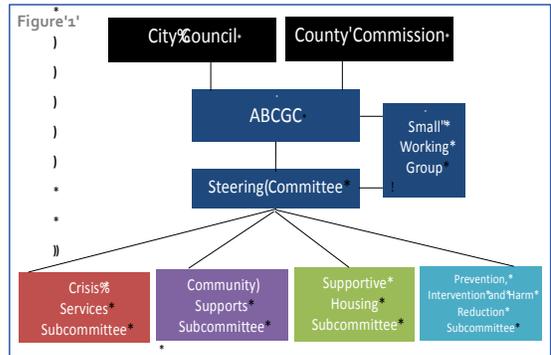

The Small Working Group guides implementation of the Behavioral Health Initiative including coordinating project assignments to the Subcommittees; staffing the Subcommittees; coordinating Steering Committee meetings; and coordinating project proposals and recommendations for consideration by the ABCGC. Membership includes city, county and provider representatives.

Steering Committee

The Steering Committee shares project information across the Subcommittees to enhance communications and ensure a unified and inclusive process in developing proposal recommendations for consideration by the ABCGC. Steering Committee membership includes the Small Working Group and Subcommittee chairs and co-chairs.

Subcommittees

Using outcomes from recent studies and community dialogues that prioritize proposed projects and target audiences, the following four priority areas and working subcommittees were identified: (1) Crisis Services; (2) Community Supports; (3) Supportive Housing; (4) Prevention, Intervention and Harm Reduction. The membership consists of voting members representing the community, technical advisors and staff who are members of the Small Working Group.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q: What are the Behavioral Health Initiative goals, process, staffing, and program management (present and projected)?

A: A position is posted for a Behavioral Health Director with a goal to have the position filled in early 2017. Additionally, an RFP has been issued for a behavioral health advisor to help put structure in place, train and mentor staff, work on future goals/direction, and braiding funding and resources. Bernalillo County is realigning internal staff resources to assist in Behavioral Health efforts; and, once that is complete, the county will have a better understanding of any needed additional resources.

Q: From the GRT income, what projects have been approved and what costs have committed thus far?

A: Figures 2 and 3 portray approved projects and the breakdown funded through the GRT, with $8,036,553 committed thus far.

Q: How does the work of the Behavioral Health Initiative relate to the larger system, i.e. mil levy negotiations and other city/county work?

A: The goal of the Behavioral Health Initiative is to build a system of care that leverages all existing resources, fills current gaps in service delivery and provides linkages throughout an ideal continuum of care. Negotiations between the county and UNMH on the mil levy are continuing with opportunity for public comment anticipated in early 2017. Discussions in the negotiations are addressing enhanced services to further leverage existing resources. And in collaboration with the Steering Committee, the Small Working Group is currently in process of developing a visual that depicts linkages and gaps in our existing system. Figure 4 on the next page represents the working draft visual.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q: How have the proposed projects been identified?

A: The projects listed in Figure 5 have been identified through outcomes from recent studies and community dialogues that prioritize gaps in services. The studies where these gaps are identified include the CPI report, City/County Task Force and the Creating Community Solutions Dialogues. Priority audiences defined for the first phase of implementation are high utilizers of the system—including those who experience frequent mental health related emergency room visits in a 12-month period and/or have experienced frequent encounters with law enforcement and the criminal justice system.

Q: Can subcommittee members develop RFPs and be involved on RFP evaluation teams?

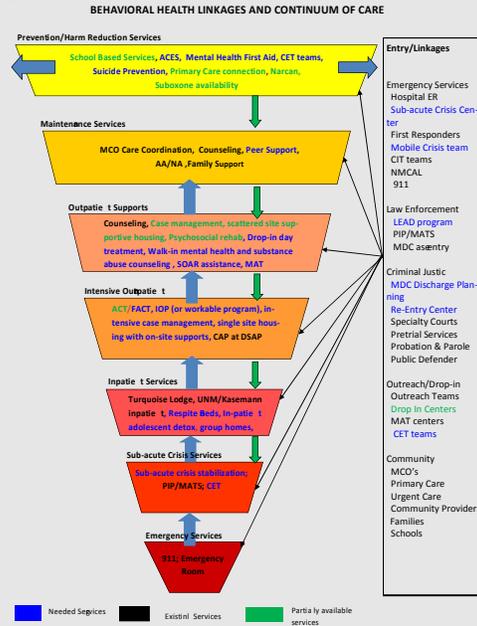

A: Development of any RFP is a formal and legal process that awarding entities undertake to solicit for services. RFPs are developed by dedicated staff to ensure adherence to procurement law and elimination of conflict of interest. The RFPs for this initiative rely heavily on the details within the project proposals to define the scope of work. While subcommittee members cannot be directly involved in writing RFPs, they form the RFP's direction through the review and editing of the project proposals. Provisions have been granted for the participation of two subcommittee members on an evaluation team.

Q: Why do the more recent project proposals for review look different?

A: The technical proposals identify what work is to be done, explain why this work needs to be done, and is used to persuade the reader that the proposer is qualified for the work and have a plausible plan and approach to seek the resources needed to complete the task within the proposed time and cost. To provide consistency in our work, a proposal template was recently introduced. Your comments are welcomed!
