Statement

The Osuma Station recently sponsored an event during which they displayed confiscated stolen property so that victims of home robbery could determine whether any of the stolen items belonged to them.

I was fortunate enough to find a few small pieces of my jewelry and most importantly, a little bead bracelet made by my son for me when he was in first grade. Thieves don't care that the items they take may have deep personal meaning even though they are monetarily worthless.

I very much appreciated APD's time, effort, and compassion during this event. As a side note - I was particularly impressed by one officer's patience and kindness in speaking with an elderly lady who seemed to be lonely and perhaps mentally ill. He was gentle and attentive to her.

Thanks for all you do.

What Outcome are you Seeking?

Congratulations to APS.

Statement

I observed a single officer detain three suspects in a Ford Bronco in front of my house this morning. The officer waited for additional officers to arrive on the scene before ordering the suspects to exit the vehicle one by one as he and the other officers searched and took them into custody. For each of the three suspects, the officer in charge gave clear instructions in a calm voice. Each suspect was searched and hand-cuffed with efficiency. The officer in charge and three other officers then searched the vehicle for additional suspects.

During the entire incident, I noted and was impressed by the controlled and methodical manner in which the suspects were brought into custody.

What Outcome are you Seeking?

I simply wish to compliment the officers involved in this morning's incident.

Statement

My wife and I were moving across country from Illinois to California. My Uhaul trailer was stolen the night of March 2nd or morning of March 3rd while I was staying the night at the _____ on Blvd. Officer Jochum found it emptied out at 817 Cutler. He was very sympathetic about our loss. He said he would check dumpsters for boxes to see if any of our clothing was discarded. I would still like a copy of the report. One other officer was there, a female but we did not get her name.

What Outcome are you Seeking?

I would like a copy of the report and return of my belongings if possible. I know that is not likely but I can dream.

Recognize both Det. Miller + Joe for their help and solution given. I think they were "stumped" for a bit but were able to come up with a solution to allow the successful registration of my vehicle.

Just the great Attitude to help was the most important thing to me.

Albuquerque police identify suspects in gas station skimming investigation

By Chelo Rivera and Marissa Lucero

Published: March 22, 2017, 10:14 am | Updated: March 22, 2017, 9:03 pm

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (KRQE) – Albuquerque police have released a major update on a crime that had the city on its toes. Detectives now have more information for the public about the skimmer operation (<http://krqe.com/2017/02/27/apd-investigating-after-finding-skimmers-used-to-rip-off-customers/>) that nabbed hundreds of victims' credit card information.

The Albuquerque Police Department said at least 200 people's credit card information was compromised in this skimmer ring operation. But after a months-long investigation, they say it's now safe to start using your cards again at gas station pumps across Albuquerque.

APD has identified a total of six suspects that they say have been living in Albuquerque for at least a year, but have ties to Cuba.

Since the skimmers were numbered, police were initially concerned there was a high number of skimmers being used, but now, they believe no more than five were used at any given time.

Police said the suspects may have removed them before skipping town. The skimmers were found inside of the pumps and automatically recorded the credit card information, which in turn was duplicated into a clone card and then used at stores with self-check outs.

Detectives said they were able to track down three skimmers thanks to the Department of Agriculture conducting inspections at gas stations. Police have arrest warrants out for three suspects: Diamarelis Ramirez-Borges, Franciso Figueroa-Martinez and Jose Dieguezpineda.

There is another person of interest police would like to talk to — his name is Roiber Borge Cabrera.

If you know where these people are, call police.

Detectives also said they believe the suspects are no longer in Albuquerque, but have hit other New Mexico cities. If caught, they could face federal charges.

While they are still putting a dollar amount together, authorities believe the suspects made more than $10,000 in fraudulent purchases.

APD will not say where they recovered the three skimmers.

i just want to thank the officers that were checking speed limits on Montano today. I can not stand it when people drive over 40 on the Montano bridge. Every day i use it and people go over 50. Please do this more often. Thank you

What Outcome are you Seeking?

I just wish the department could do this more often and in other parts of the city as well. You guys need to catch all speeders and hopefully this will stop. And this goes to a few of you officers driving over the speed limit.
