A DIFFERENT KIND OF SUMMER

- As we work to mitigate the impact of the coronavirus pandemic, businesses and local government services preparing for a Phase 1 in a careful, phased manner.
- That includes child, youth and summer care programs, which thousands of kids and their families rely on for affordable and engaging childcare.
  - These programs also involve City facilities, buildings, and cultural sites.
  - The City is moving thousands of kids programs online, cancelling many programs, but also modifying programs so they can continue in 'different way.'
- Even as services return and facilities re-open, social distancing, contact trace ability, face coverings, and careful hygiene will remain in place.
- The City is ready to step up and provide these services, but in a different limited and phased-in fashion.

REQUIRED COVID-SAFE PRACTICES AT CABQ

- City has already been serving children of essential workers at community and child development centers—building experience with managing these types of programs in COVID-safe ways.
- As more parents are called back to work, the need for affordable, engaging childcare will grow.
- At each site, CABQ will limit overall attendance and strictly follow CDC guidance and State public health orders on gathering sizes.
- Separated classrooms and lower Student-Teacher Ratios.
- Sign-in and reservation requirements enable contact traceable quarantine, and quarantine protocols are in place at each site.
- Staff wearing appropriate personal protective equipment (PPE), and facilities will be regularly and extensively cleaned.
- Pick-up and drop-off will be carefully managed to reduce risk.
- Daily screening, including temperature testing, will be used at each site.
