

ALERT:

University of Phoenix Legal Settlement Alert

If you or someone you know attended the University of Phoenix, you may be eligible to receive money from the Federal Trade Commission.

The FTC is sending a total of almost $50 million to nearly 147,500 students of the University of Phoenix as part of a 2019 settlement, where the school was charged with using deceptive ads to attract students. Find out more at <https://www.ftc.gov/news-events/press-releases/2021/03/ftc-sends-nearly-50-million-refunds-university-phoenix-students>

You may be eligible for a payment if you did not already have your debt cancelled by the University of Phoenix, and meet the following three requirements:

1. You first enrolled in an associate's, bachelor's, or master's degree program at the University of Phoenix between October 15, 2012 and December 31, 2016;
2. You paid more than $5,000 to the University (using cash, student loans, military benefits, or a combination);
3. You did not object when the University of Phoenix sent you a notice asking if they could give your information to the FTC.

Learn more about the settlement and how you can get your money.

<https://www.militaryconsumer.gov/blog/university-phoenix-students-get-payments>