PROVISIONS AND REQUIREMENTS

The Albuquerque City Council passed the Albuquerque Tax Preparers and Consumer Rights Ordinance on February 1, 2021. View the amended ordinance, as adopted, at cabq.gov and read the FAQ below for information on how it affects your business as a Tax Preparer. This FAQ does not constitute legal advice and a tax preparer should contact an attorney with questions of legal interpretation.

Q: Does the ordinance apply to me or my company?

A: The Ordinance applies to any person or business organization who prepares a personal income tax return for compensation. It also applies to any person who represents themselves as providing tax preparation services, subject to the following exemptions.

It does not apply to attorneys, certified public accountants, volunteer tax assistance programs, government employees who provide tax preparation services, or duly appointed representatives who provide tax preparation services. R.O.A. 1994 § 13-20-1-3 (hereinafter TPCR).

The ordinance does apply to tax preparers who are IRS "enrolled agents." This means that "enrolled agents" must comply with the disclosure requirements and tax preparer obligations outlined in the final Ordinance.

Mandatory Disclosures

Q: Before providing any tax preparer services to a consumer, what information must I disclose to the consumer?

A: Before providing any tax preparer services to a consumer, the tax preparer must provide the consumer the following mandatory disclosures:

(A) Albuquerque Consumer Bill of Rights for Paid Personal Income Tax Preparation Services.
TPCR § 13-20-1-4(A).

(B) Tax Preparer Disclosure. TPCR § 13-20-1-4(B).

- The tax preparer's name, address, and phone number.
- The tax preparer's IRS PTIN and New Mexico CRS identification number.
- A written summary of the tax preparer's qualifications, including educational degrees attained, years of education directly related to tax preparation service, and years of experience in tax preparation service. If you are an enrolled agent, you may include information about this training and certification with the tax preparer's qualification disclosures.
- As applicable, a statement that the tax preparer is not a certified public accountant or attorney or enrolled agent with the IRS.
- A statement that the consumer may (1) file their taxes for free by visiting the IRS website or (2) qualify for free tax preparation assistance from nonprofit organizations.
- A statement that the tax preparer will provide a written estimate of the total charges before entering into any written agreement with the consumer.

is recommended that the tax preparer explain to the consumer why the price range varies and what factors will impact the final cost.

Tax Preparer Obligations

Q: What duties do I owe the consumer after we enter into a written agreement or contract?

A: The following is a summary of duties that the tax preparer owes the consumer:

- The tax preparer must provide the consumer a reasonable opportunity to review the final draft tax return before it is filed. TPCR § 13-20-1-5(A).
- The tax preparer must give the consumer a copy of the final tax return for free. TPCR § 13-20-1-5(B)
- The tax preparer must return all personal papers and a copy of any schedules prepared to the consumer when (1) the final tax return is given to the consumer for filing; or (2) within five days of filing the final tax return. TPCR § 13-20-1-5(C).
- The tax preparer must comply with the consumer's choice to deposit the tax refund into the consumer's bank account. TPCR § 13-20-1-5(D).
- At the end of tax preparation services, the tax preparer must provide 1) a final itemized accounting of all services provided and the fees charged for those services and, if included, any refund settlement products, selected by the consumer, including any fees and costs; 2) a written explanation of any fees or costs charged in excess of the estimated charges previously disclosed; 3) a written statement setting forth the dollar amount and percentage of the consumer's total refund that is to be paid to the tax preparer and any affiliate of the tax preparer; and 4) a written statement setting forth the address and phone number where the consumer can contact the tax preparer throughout the year. TPCR § 13-20-1-4(E).

Q: Under the Ordinance, must a tax preparer apply for a license?

A: No. The Ordinance as originally proposed did include a licensure requirement. The Ordinance was amended before final action and these provisions were deleted from the final Ordinance.

However, all tax preparers doing business in Albuquerque should already have a business registration filed with the City.

Q. Does the tax preparer have to secure a bond?

A: No. The Ordinance as originally proposed did include a licensure bonding requirement. The Ordinance was amended before final action and these provisions were deleted from the final Ordinance.

Q: If I offer Refund Anticipation Loans or products or work with an affiliate to offer these products in conjunction with tax preparation services, what are my obligations under this Ordinance?

A: Tax preparers are prohibited from requiring the consumer to purchase a Refund Settlement Product in conjunction with tax preparation services. TPCR § 13-20-1-5(E); § 13-20-1-9(A).

In addition to state and federal disclosure requirements regarding Refund Settlement Products, the tax preparer must provide the following with the Written Estimate of Fees. TPCR § 13-20-1-4(D)(2):

- The amount of any anticipated tax refund from the federal and state government.
- A written estimate of both the dollar amount and percentage deducted from the consumer's anticipated tax refund to pay for tax preparation services.

Q: Does the consumer have the right to be provided disclosures in English and Spanish? What if the consumer does not understand English or Spanish?

A: Yes, the tax preparer must offer the mandatory disclosures in either English or Spanish based on the consumer's preference. The forms will be available on-line in Spanish at <https://cabq.gov/taxpreprights>. If the consumer does not understand English or Spanish, the tax preparer must allow the consumer reasonable opportunity to seek a translator at the consumer's expense. TPCR § 13-20-1-4(G).

Q: Can I provide electronic documents to the consumer?

A: Yes, the tax preparer may provide either electronic or written forms to the consumer. Nevertheless, it is important that the tax preparer provide these forms in a reasonable manner so that the consumer understands the information. TPCR § 13-20-1-4(F)(1); § 13-20-1-4(I).

Q: Are there City of Albuquerque model disclosure forms? Are these forms required to be used?

A: The City's model disclosure forms are available in both English and Spanish and can be found at <https://cabq.gov/taxpreprights>. The tax preparer may choose to use their own mandatory disclosures but a tax preparer shall be deemed in compliance with the disclosure requirements if a tax preparer uses the model form.

Mandatory Postings

Q: What information related to my tax preparation services must be displayed at my business?

A: The tax preparer must display the following mandatory postings. TPCR § 13-20-1-8(A – G):

- A statement that the tax preparer must give the consumer a free copy of the "Albuquerque Consumer Bill of Rights for Paid Personal Income Tax Preparation Services." This brochure will be available on line at <https://cabq.gov/taxpreprights>
- A price list that describes each tax preparation service, including the cost of individual forms.
- A price list that describes any additional charges, including worksheets, processing, filing, billing, or other miscellaneous fees that may be charged.
- Where applicable, whether a taxpayer offers to prepare an estimate of the anticipated tax refund, in conjunction with a refund settlement product; or, if the tax preparer or an affiliate offers refund settlement products; and, if so:
 - A written description and price to prepare a tax refund estimate and other related fees;
 - The cost of any tax settlement product offered, consistent with state and federal disclosure requirements and including the annual percentage rate charged and any other fees or costs.

undertake any enforcement actions prior to that date. See the full resolution here: City of Albuquerque - File #: R-21-213 \(legistar.com\)

Q: Can I waive the requirements of the tax preparer ordinance when I enter into a written agreement or contract with the consumer?

A: No, any provision that attempts to avoid any rule under TPCR will be void and unenforceable. TPCR § 13-20-1-10(l).

You can find a copy of this document, "Tax Preparer FAQ," at <https://cabq.gov/taxpreprights> along with model disclosure forms. All forms will be available on-line shortly. Please be patient while we get all of these documents available on the website.

Q: If my business is a corporation, who is responsible for providing the disclosure to the taxpayer?

A: The person primarily responsible for providing tax preparation services to the taxpayer is also responsible for providing the disclosure to the taxpayer. The tax preparer whose PTIN or CRS is attached to the taxpayer's return bears the responsibility to provide the disclosure.

Q: Do I have to comply with the ordinance if my business is located in Albuquerque but only provide tax preparation services to clients beyond municipal limits? Do I have to comply with the ordinance if I provide tax preparation services to Albuquerque residents even though my business is located beyond municipal limits?

A: Generally, if the tax preparer's business is located within municipal limits, you are subject to the Ordinance. Also, if the tax preparer's business (a) performs transactions with or offers services to Albuquerque residents, (b) solicits Albuquerque residents, or (c) meets with clients inside municipal limits, the City takes the position that the tax preparer's business is subject to the ordinance.

The City does not and cannot offer legal advice to an individual or business. It is recommended that you consult an attorney if you have any questions.
