There are different ways to support APINH-Owned local businesses in Albuquerque. My goal through HONOR Magazine and our digital hub at cabq.gov/apinh is to provide a platform for visibility so that we can all find each other.

When I was looking for local vendors, creators, and makers who might not have storefronts, I scoured Instagram and realized there's no standard for finding each other.

We know we have a very strong, resilient, and vibrant APINH business community with a physical presence throughout Albuquerque neighborhoods. We also have creative and skilled souls who are solopreneurs but might not be visible in business or review listings.

What we have to do as a community is be “findable”.

Help our local businesses be findable:

- If you are an APINH-Owned business in Albuquerque or enjoy one: use these hashtags on social media so we can find each other:
 - #APINHOwnedABQ
 - #HONORMagGiftGuide
 - #BuyLocalABQ
- Send ideas or requests to be included in future issues of HONOR Magazine: JacquelineSo@cabq.gov
- Support local! What I've done in this issue is put together gift ideas for different types of people:

Creative

Loves art, design, photography, DIY projects, or supporting local makers. They value aesthetic, originality, and personal expression.

Custom prints, handmade jewelry, local art pieces, personalized stationery, or crafting kits.

Entrepreneur

Launching a business, side hustle, or passion project. Appreciates tools and resources that help them grow.

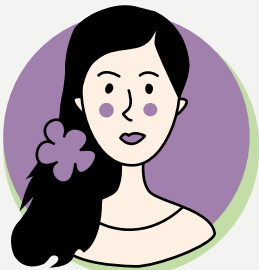

Custom stationery, business cards, branded merchandise, tech accessories, notebooks, or gift cards for coffee meets/tailoring/printing.

Home & Lifestyle Enthusiast

Takes pride in home décor, self-care routines, and making their space feel cozy and personal.

Foodie

Loves cooking, trying new foods, attending tastings, or collecting kitchen gadgets. Food is their love language.

Specialty ingredients, gift baskets from APINH-owned markets, personalized recipe books, tea or spice sets, or cooking classes.

Person Who Doesn't Want Gifts

Buys themselves what they want, enjoys giving others gifts but has a hard time receiving it, or aims for a minimalist approach to collecting.

For the person who doesn't want physical gifts, spending quality time together is a gift.
