Open Space Visitor Center Celebrates Tenth Anniversary

by Kent Swanson, OSVC Manager

On September 17th, the Open Space Visitor Center celebrated its tenth anniversary of opening to the public. Over 500 people attended the event, which included presentations by Lee Gamelsky Architects, the original designer of the award-winning facility; Jodi Hedderig, Open Space Visitor Center Manager from 2006-2015; and Matt Schmader, City of Albuquerque Open Space Superintendent. People who came for the day enjoyed new interpretive garden tiles created by artists Patricia Halloran and Cirrelda Snider-Bryan, children's activities designed by Noel Chilton, a giant puppet parade, unique items for sale in the Open Space Alliance's gift shop, and a rattle-making workshop by Gregg and Xavier Analla. There was great food provided by the Döner Kebab food truck, and live music to be had as well. The Voces de Coronado Children's Choir, Pawn Drive, Last Call, and the Tumbleweeds made appearances on the outdoor patio, and filled the air with joyous music to celebrate the occasion. The spirit of community was truly remarkable.

A special treat for the Open Space community was a visit from Reba Roberson, who along with her husband Coda, were the original owners of the property where the Visitor Center and wildlife fields are now located.

The story of the Open Space Visitor Center began in the 1980s. The City of Albuquerque purchased the land when development threatened the 1000-room Piedras Marcadas adobe pueblo site south of Paseo del Norte and east of Coors Boulevard. It was then incorporated into the Petroglyph National Monument at its creation in 1990. In 1997, Albuquerque's citizens approved a ¼ cent tax increase that raised about $36 million dollars and allowed for the purchase of the home of Coda and Reba Roberson, just south of the Piedras Marcadas pueblo site. After ten years of planning and construction, the Open Space Visitor Center officially opened to the public in September of 2006. For ten years, the Visitor Center has celebrated "Connecting People to Place," with special events like the Return of the Sandhill Cranes Celebration, the Recycled Art Fair, workshops, arts and crafts, classes, film screenings, service projects, rotating exhibits in the Open Space Gallery, and much more.

Many thanks to Open Space Visitor Center staff Noel Chilton and Kim Selving, and all the volunteers who helped with the preparations for the big day and with the days' activities. Also a huge thank you to the Open Space Alliance for sponsoring the event and to Pop Fizz for donating 150 popsicles that kept our participants refreshed on the warm late summer day.

The staff of the Open Space Division look forward to all the exciting things to come in the future, as we continue to improve and enhance this unique space that serves as the nexus of art, the environment, and culture for the Albuquerque community.

Spotlight on Open Space

New Mexico Magazine recently highlighted Open Space lands in an article titled "Albuquerque, Naturally," in its July edition. According to the author, "When it comes to places to luxuriate in fresh air and nature in an urban environment, the Duke City is hard to beat." She offers her take on the Best Hiking Hot Spot (Golden Open Space) and Best Walking-Distance Waterfall (Piedra Lisa), among others. Visit the website at www.nmmagazine.com to read the full article.

Volunteers Really Clean Up

From March through early June almost 400 volunteers participated in stewardship projects on Open Space properties. These projects included National Trails Day, National River Cleanup and Spring Cleanup and trail maintenance days in the Sandia foothills (Route 66, Copper, Menaul, Indian School, and Piedra Lisa areas). Participation varied from 31 volunteers at Route 66 to 110 at the National River Cleanup. Here are some of the highlights!

Things cleaned up:

172 pounds of dog poop, 10 cubic yards of trash (and a half trash compactor from National River Cleanup Day!), 4½ bags of aluminum, 15½ bags of mixed recyclables, 8 car tires, 38 gallons of broken glass, and 8+ concentrations of graffiti.

Other work accomplished:

1.8 miles of trail maintained, 700 feet of new trail constructed, 5 area closed/trail closed signs installed, 1 foot bridge repaired, 3 trail signs replaced, 5 new trail signs installed, 1 illegal campsite cleaned up, 100s of cactus cuttings planted for trail closures, 2 sections of fence installed and repaired, and another 11 miscellaneous trail maintenance and restoration projects completed.

Found items of interest:

Mini cowboy boot, 1986 NM license plate, can of Gold Temptation body spray, hunting arrow, magic wand, Hank Aaron Atlanta Braves jersey, electric capacitor, ½ bottle of lighter fluid, 7 golf balls, kids' flip flops, railroad spike, old metal cleated shoe, 5 bottles of beer, headless toy soldier, circular saw, belt buckle, sewing gauge, bouquet of flowers with plastic frog, and softball batting helmet.

We would like to thank our volunteers, whose hard work makes maintaining our city's Open Space possible.

National Trails Day Lunch Catered by Petri Dishes

Petri Dishes, a new downtown eatery, has offered to cater this year's National Trails Day lunch. Tom Petri, owner of Petri Dishes, was happy to offer his services to our hard-working volunteers this year. "Our chef is amazing, you wouldn't believe what he has created in Petri Dishes," said Tom.

Massage Therapist Accused of Using Excessive Force

Volunteer Judy Sciatica filed a complaint with the Open Space Division about massage therapist, Alyssa Minkey, who was donating her time at the National Trails Day Celebration held at the Elena Gallegos Picnic Area on June 4th. When asked about the nature of the complaint, Ms. Sciatica replied, "She was just really getting on my nerves." In her defense, Alyssa Minkey commented, "That Sciatica is a big pain!"

Open Space Alliance raises money with Run for the Hills

By Steven Glass and Ellen Burgess, Open Space Alliance

The non-profit Open Space Alliance (OSA) partnered with TCR Productions to host its first ever fundraising event, the foot race known as Run for the Hills, held August 21 on Embudo Canyon Open Space trails. Over 50 volunteers helped on race day, arriving as early as 5:30am to help with all aspects of the race. Not only did we have fantastic volunteers, but The North Face was our title sponsor, providing their store location for packet pickup along with some great swag and a cash donation. Nearly 200 runners competed in the chip-timed event, which featured 10K and 5K competitive trail runs and a 1K fun run for kids. OSA is delighted to report that not only did the event break even, but we cleared over $650! These funds will directly support Open Space Division projects, events and facility improvement initiatives. Thank you to Open Space staff for input and support regarding the event permitting and promotion. Planning has already started for next year's Run for the Hills. We will use our rookie experience to make the 2017 race bigger and better! Assistance is needed in all aspects of planning – please contact current board president Steve Glass if you are interested.

Pick up your ABQ Park Passport!

ABQ PARKPASS

Your Neighborhood, Your Park, Go Play!

#ABQPARKPASS

The City of Albuquerque wants to reward visitors of City Parks and Open Space this fall. Anyone completing ten of the thirty-six activities identified by the Parks and Recreation department will receive a pair of earbuds; those who complete twenty will be entered into a drawing to win a hot air balloon ride for two, a weekend ski/snowboard rental, two Live Nation concert tickets, a two-hour pool party rental at West Mesa Aquatic Center, a $50 gift certificate to Cooperage, or a $25 gift certificate to Scarpas. To get credit, participants will either receive a sticker for their passports from staff at the facility or post a photo on social media and tag #AbqParkPass.

There are activities across the city for all ages; Open Space events and locations include the Full Moon Concert at the Visitor Center, Petroglyph National Monument, the shooting range, Maloof Airfield, the Bosque Trail, hiking at Elena Gallegos, and disc golf at Montessa Park.

The ABQ Park Pass runs from October 1-31st. Pick up passes at Jerry Cline Tennis Center, any indoor City pool, the Open Space Visitor Center, or Parks and Recreation headquarters at 1801 4th Street, or print at home from www.cabq.gov/parksandrec-recreation/abqparkpass. Return passes to Jerry Cline, West Mesa Aquatic Center, or at 1801 4th Street by November 7th.

Changes at Open Space

Open Space has seen quite a few changes this year, with folks coming, going, and moving within the Division.

We would like to send some fond farewells to several familiar faces. Jim Marmon, Park Attendant Supervisor; Jolynn Maestas, Open Space Volunteer Coordinator; and Eileen Armijo, Open Space Dispatcher are all enjoying retirement. Congratulations to Marty Sprunk, Open Space Dispatcher, and Sarah Browne, Associate Planner, on your career moves!

We'd also like to congratulate staff members who have moved to new positions within Open Space: Kent Swanson, former Associate Planner, is now the Visitor Center Manager; Jim Sattler, previously the Resource Management and Visitor Services Supervisor was promoted to Assistant Superintendent; he replaced Mark Chavez, who is now the Superintendent of Park Management; and Raymond Gomez, who was promoted to a General Maintenance Worker position.

Finally, we'd like to welcome our new employees, Jacquelyn Rice, Stock Keeper; and Nathan Todd and Tricia Keffer, both Associate Planners.

Get involved in the Open Space Alliance today and contribute to the future of YOUR Open Space!

Your generous contribution to the Open Space Alliance supports OSA's mission of enhancing our quality of life through: heightening public awareness of Open Space lands; building and strengthening partnerships with groups who share Open Space values; promoting conservation, acquisition, and stewardship of Open Space lands; strengthening volunteerism and community outreach programs; and providing financial support.

For information about our current activities, contact Steve Glass, OSA Board President, at: president@openspacealliance.org.

To join, please fill out the information and return the form with your check or money order.
