• On September 1 Sgt. Bassett received a call stating a large backpack was located unattended approximately five miles up Embudito Trail. Attached to the backpack was a note stating the subject was falcon watching on the Sandia ridgeline near South Peak. The note was dated Saturday, August 30. Sgt. Bassett and Officer C. Melvin initiated a Search and Rescue (SAR) call out. Officers located the backpack. The note appeared to be written by someone not thinking clearly, and the officers headed to the location they believed the note was referring to. After six hours of hiking and searching in severe heat, the officers located the individual on a cliff ledge near South Peak. Officers rendered basic medical aid and provided him with food and water. It was determined that the victim had gone three days without food or water. The victim thought he may have had a minor stroke, as he could not maintain his balance, and he was extremely disoriented from severe dehydration and exposure. He had been lying on the cliff edge since Saturday afternoon hoping someone would see him. Officers A. Martinez and M. Schmidt were air lifted from the location they were searching by Metro 1 to Sgt. Bassett and Officer Melvin’s location to assist with medical aid and to provide additional equipment. Officers were able to get the victim off the cliff ledge to a clearing where a PHI medical helicopter was able to land and air lift him to a local hospital for treatment.

• While conducting this Search and Rescue, AFD called for assistance on a SAR at Embudito Trail. A woman was one mile up the trail with a broken leg. AFD requested APD SAR help to locate and transport the victim off the mountain. Lt. J. McDonald left as Incident Commander on the initial SAR and responded to assist with AFD. Lt. McDonald was able to return and continue as IC following securing proper assistance to the female victim.

• Open Space SAR Officers made it off the mountain at approximately 22:30 hours when they were notified of a third Search and Rescue. Officers made their way to Elena Gallegos Park where they learned a group of five hikers were lost. Two hikers had made it back to the parking area but three were still missing. Lights could be seen on the mountain from a distance of the three missing hikers who worked their way back to the parking lot.

• Later, Officers assisted in the Sandia Mountains recovering the disoriented hiker’s gear that was left behind on the mountain.
