Message from the Int. Commander

By: Int. Commander Josh Richards, Phil Chacon Memorial Substation

Good morning SE!!!!

Just wanted to give a quick update on Southeast Area Command. We have completed the new Southeast Substation and are now scheduling the community room for use.

If you wish to use the community room you will find the email for an official request or you can call the substation to request the room.

We finish our Field Service Bureau BID this week. I fully expect for the majority of our officers to return to the SE and keep this momentum we have going!!!

Finally, I am excited to continue to build my relationship with all of you in the SE. I have been making my rounds to different community meetings, businesses and contacts with residents of the SE. If you see me around please say hi. If you would like me to stop by your business or meeting send me an email. until next month stay safe.

Message from Chief Medina

Hello Albuquerque, I hope everyone is doing well! I can't believe we're already into February, but we have so much planned for the year ahead. I've been spending time at the Roundhouse with the ongoing Legislative Session advocating for several bills we have put forth.

Operations on Central Avenue continue as we now have a dedicated Major over this effort to help clean up the area while providing individuals much needed resources.

From our Traffic Division enforcing speeding and other roadway violations, to our specialty units checking on individuals and criminal activity, to our High Risk Victims Unit (HRVU) assisting individuals and investigating human trafficking, the initiative is a department wide effort.

We have an exciting announcement for our community in the Southeast, with the grand re-opening of the Phil Chacon Memorial Substation. The new substation has been a long time coming and now has amenities for community members and our officers.

The 21,000 square foot facility is made up of three different zones, with a secured booking area and holding cells, as well as evidence storage. The substation also houses a new community room that can fit up to 100 people.

As a way to better connect with the community, we are putting more focus into Nextdoor. We will continue using our page to share proactive information, including upcoming community events, crime data, operation results, safety tips and important community updates. We have also created another account, @APDInfo, to allow us to share, interact and post in some of the neighborhoods across the city.

'Gotta catch 'em all!'

Unusually, "Gotta catch 'em all!" is a phrase associated with Pokémon. But for the Albuquerque Police Department, it's a reality. Officers are often called upon to assist with Pokémon-related incidents, such as children playing with Pokéballs in the middle of a street or a person using a Pokéball to distract a dog. Officers are trained to handle these situations safely and effectively, ensuring the safety of the community and the Pokémon.

In Old Town this past weekend, we hosted our first Cops vs. Kids event in partnership with Old Town Hobbies and Games. There was a great turnout and we received significant feedback from kids and parents that they'd like more events like this.

We will continue to find more ways to engage with the community, and I encourage you to reach out, and get in touch with us if you have ideas to partner in your community or at your business. Please contact our Community Engagement Manager at Angelinanavarro@cabq.gov.

Albuquerque Metro Crime Stoppers is a community program that relies on anonymous tips to solve crimes and to locate fugitives from justice. Without anonymity of callers, the program cannot be effective.

Crime Stoppers pays rewards only for anonymous tips. Tipsters who identify themselves are not eligible for a reward.

Crime Stoppers has sole discretion to decide the amount of any reward to be paid, from zero to $1,000.

Crime Stoppers will pay rewards only for tips given directly to it. Any tip given to another source, such as law enforcement, will not be eligible for a Crime Stoppers reward.

Crime Stoppers does not pay rewards to any person who has a legal duty to assist in the arrest of suspects and fugitives.

Romance Scams

In romance scams, a criminal uses a fake online identity to gain a victim's affection and trust. The scammer then uses the illusion of a romantic or close relationship to manipulate and/or steal from the victim.

The scammer wants to establish a relationship as quickly as possible, endear himself to the victim, and gain trust. Scammers may propose marriage and make plans to meet in person, but that will never happen. Eventually, they will ask for money.

The criminals who carry out romance scams are experts at what they do and will seem genuine, caring, and believable. Con artists are present on most dating and social media sites.

Scam artists often say they are in the building and construction industry and are engaged in projects outside the U.S. That makes it easier to avoid meeting in person—and more plausible when they ask for money for a medical emergency or unexpected legal fee.

If someone you meet online needs your bank account information to deposit money, they are most likely using your account to carry out other theft and fraud schemes.

Protect Yourself

- Be careful what you post and make public online. Scammers can use details shared on social media and dating sites to better understand and target you.
- Research the person's photo and profile using online searches to see if the image, name, or details have been used elsewhere.
- Go slowly and ask lots of questions.
- Beware if the individual seems too perfect or quickly asks you to leave a dating service or social media site to communicate directly.
- Beware if the individual attempts to isolate you from friends and family or requests inappropriate photos or financial information that could later be used to extort you.
- Beware if the individual promises to meet in person but then always comes up with an excuse why he or she can't. If you haven't met the person after a few months, for whatever reason, you have good reason to be suspicious.
- Never send money to anyone you have only communicated with online or by phone.

Report Romance Scams

Visit ic3.gov, the FBI's Internet Crime Complaint Center (IC3), to report romance scams.

If you've been victimized, stop all contact with the scammer immediately.

FBI Warning: Do Not Click Anything

Laura Kuehn, NCPS, ICPS

Artificial Intelligence (AI) is a game changer – both positive and negative. The FBI is now warning that AI-powered phishing attacks are the most sophisticated ever and are relentless alongside more traditional threats. As the most popular email platform in the world, Gmail is a prime target, leading to their advice “do not click on anything in an unsolicited email.” (forbes.com)

What we have come to know as social engineering campaigns have evolved to hacking attacks. Because of Gmail’s reach and popularity, it is an obvious target and a way to compromise a Google account. In 70% of cases, malicious links are the preferred tactic. And the median time that it takes users to click – 60 seconds. It has become much easier to clone an authentic website in just a few easy steps making phishing more frequent, effective and preferred.

We look for misspellings, nuances in language, incorrect punctuation as visual clues that something may be wrong. With the use of AI, these common clues go by the wayside. Google has advised Gmail users should not respond to requests for private information.

Never trust unsolicited links in email, social media or pop-up messages.

The Nob Hill – University Public Safety ECHO focuses on cases and issues in the area but the discussions and presentations benefit everyone across the community.

Join us to discuss problems and concerns in the area and for presentations addressing Mental Health, Substance Use, Community Health, Policing and skills for public safety. This is a great opportunity to meet community members and city stakeholders working in these important areas or dealing with various public safety issues.
