Happy New Year!

This past year has changed so many aspects in our lives, and we are grateful to you and all of the members of our community who helped to get us through it every day. We have all faced challenges and continue to adapt to a new normal, but through it all, our commitment to Albuquerque’s seniors never wavered. The City of Albuquerque and Department of Senior Affairs charted a new course to keep people safe and keep services going in a time of need. With great joy, we returned to full operations this year. We know that as this pandemic continues, we will be able to adapt to be there for our community and continue to pursue our mission to provide care and compassion to help our neighbors thrive while aging.

While so many local governments had to scale back services during the pandemic, here in Albuquerque we expanded to meet the growing need to support our older adult population. During this time, we increased programs to ensure older adults remained engaged and connected to their community and have nearly doubled the number of Burqueños we provide services like meal delivery, home services, and companion care for. We expanded our transportation services to provide rides to all seniors within a 5-mile radius of every senior and multigenerational center in the city. That expansion has created even more access to meals, programs, and important social interactions for adults 60 and older across all of Albuquerque. When we safely resumed full operations, we were excited to return to our in-person programming. We know that many of the friends that meet in our centers are like family and it was important that we were able to enjoy time together on Thanksgiving Day and Christmas at our Holiday Luncheons.

Meeting the needs of our seniors and promoting active and healthy aging is our priority. We will continue to work hard to develop new and innovative approaches from the lessons learned during the pandemic. One major lesson learned was the need to be flexible. With so many different circumstances impacting how we deliver programs, this year, our catalog will provide information on our regular services, our expanded programs, and information on ways to access our most recent up-to-date class and event schedules which can always be found on our web page at cabq.gov/seniors.

As always, you are encouraged to reach out to our Senior Information Line any time you have a question or need additional information at (505) 764-6400 or seniorinformation@cabq.gov. Our knowledgeable information specialists are available Monday through Friday, between 8:15 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to help you.

We hope your new year is off to a great start and we hope you continue to remain healthy and joyful throughout the whole year.

Sincerely,

Timothy M. Keller
