MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

TIMOTHY M. KELLER

MAYOR, CITY OF ALBUQUERQUE

This year has been anything but business as usual. In cities all across America and all across New Mexico, the pandemic led to decisions to cancel summer programs entirely and to freeze hiring for thousands of young people who depend on these programs for summer jobs. In our city, we saw a chance to step up for local families, especially our essential workers who have not had the luxury of being able to stay at home while they work. We knew affordable, accessible child development programs were even more critical in this year than ever before.

So this summer we made a commitment to offer full-day youth programs for kindergarten through eighth grades at 22 community centers across Albuquerque. We brought together staff from Cultural Services, Parks and Recreation, Senior Affairs, and the Family and Community Services Departments, coordinated by our Youth Connect initiative, to offer dozens of programs adapted to include COVID-safe practices. For the parents staying home with their kids in the new work-from-home reality, we created and curated thousands of hours of virtual content to keep kids not just occupied but engaged in development, learning, and fun.

I'm grateful to the hard work our team put into making these programs a reality, even when the deck was stacked against them. After reading this report, I know you'll feel the same way.

In the spirit of Albuquerque,

ABOUT YOUTH CONNECT

Welcome to the 2020 State of the Summer report from the One Albuquerque Youth Connect team! This report includes highlights from the 2020 summer season and shows how seven city departments collaborated to offer virtual and in-person programming during the COVID-19 pandemic. The COVID-19 pandemic altered the ways the City serves Albuquerque youth and families, and thus, the State of the Summer report has also changed this year.

From virtual kids coding programs to online music and math to private swimming lessons and outdoor explorer camps, the City of Albuquerque created new ways to provide an enriching experience for Albuquerque families.

The 2020 State of the Summer report demonstrates the adaptations made to city youth programming, the response to the COVID-19 pandemic, and how we, as One Albuquerque, stepped up to provide a safety net for the City's youth and families.

The City is focused on ensuring all children have access to an array of learning opportunities from outdoor adventures to arts and culture and community engagement.

The Mission

The mission of One Albuquerque Youth Connect is to enrich the lives of the people of Albuquerque and create a community of safety and inclusion by connecting Albuquerque's youth to opportunities in our city.

OUR COVID-19 RESPONSE

The onset of the COVID-19 pandemic brought on both unprecedented challenges and opportunities for the City of Albuquerque youth programs. Beginning in March, as school districts shut down, City departments implemented emergency youth programs for children of essential workers and began to modify plans for summer.

Due to COVID restrictions and heightened safety, nearly all trainings for staff were developed and conducted virtually to include topics such as code of conduct, safety, disability/inclusivity, and diversity/equity awareness.

All youth programs offered through the City of Albuquerque integrated new COVID-safe practices into their daily routines including: daily wellness screenings, mandatory masks, hand-washing, implementation of sick policies, a stringent cleaning and disinfecting schedule, and physical distancing to safeguard the health and safety of staff and participants.

OUR YOUTH PROGRAM SITES

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, many City of Albuquerque summer sites were unfortunately forced to take a hiatus during the 2020 season.

However, the City was able to utilize many of those sites as a safety net for families to receive essential services.

My favorite thing about this summer is that we were still able to have a talent show at our center; my group won so I was really happy!”

—Santana Benavidez
Taylor Ranch Community
Center; Age 10

OUR STAFF AND INTERNS

Several City departments offered internships and employment opportunities this summer. Employees served in a variety of capacities including: Recreation Leaders, Lifeguards, Cashiers, Tennis Instructors, Clerical Workers, and Maintenance Workers.

It feels good to be an essential worker during this time. I am glad to be able help my community by taking care of these kids who need somewhere to be during the day."

—Titus Gallegos, Recreation Leader
Los Duranes Community Center; Age 20

Some unique internship opportunities included interns working as Echo film editors with the Albuquerque Police Department, interns working with Keep Albuquerque Beautiful in

It is a little bit scary to be an essential worker because a lot of us are uncertain about the pandemic. But I also think it feels good knowing that I am here, and I am able to help parents that are unable to take care of their kids during this time.”

—Julia Sanchez, Recreation Leader,
Heights Community Center; Age 20

the Solid Waste Department, and young people working with the Creative Youth Corps in the Cultural Services Department.

The COVID-19 pandemic brought out the competency and tenacity of both permanent and part-time youth program employees. As these positions became essential, staff took on the challenges with positivity and professionalism. Staff were trained virtually and were able to both learn and implement COVID-safe practices and policies, in addition to “normal” training in order to create and maintain safe and fun environments for participants and staff alike.

OUR SURVEY RESULTS

With our day-to-day routine being drastically different this year, and especially this summer, we still wanted to ask the community for feedback on our offerings.

We are continually committed to improving our programs, especially in response to our COVID-Safe Practices (CSP). Here are our findings from our short survey on what families thought about our programs.

I enjoy getting to watch the improvements my student makes. From where they start to where they finish skills wise. I also enjoy getting to meet new people. I just like everything about lessons!"

—Jeremiah Sanchez, Lifeguard,

OUR PARTNERSHIPS

The summer of 2020 was one for the history books. The City of Albuquerque could not have been able to offer the highest level of programming without the support and collaborations from amazing partners! These relationships exhibited support through PPE, supply, food, and gift card donations; hosting City interns; and providing complementary programs, amongst many additional ways.

Our partners are nonprofits, businesses, government agencies, and schools from all over Albuquerque. Some partnerships have been around for decades, others are new this year. No matter how long we have been working together, all of our partners are committed to creating positive experiences and enriching opportunities for youth in Albuquerque.
